

Immigrants Hear Concert and Speech by Senator Calder

Mrs. Namara Sings and National Symphony Orchestra Plays.

The National Symphony Orchestra, Arthur Hodek conductor, gave a concert yesterday afternoon for the immigrants at Ellis Island. The concert was given on the lawn back of the receiving station, and 2,000 immigrants and 1,000 visitors from the city composed the audience.

Mrs. Marguerite Namara, soprano, sang the song "Faint," the song from "Romeo and Juliet" and the song "The Song of the Immigrant." The orchestra, played the last movement of Mendelssohn's concerto on the violin.

Short addresses were made by Frederick A. Wallis, Robert B. Mahoney of the Department of Labor, and Senator William M. Calder.

Among those who attended the concert were seventy women police reserves from Manhattan under the command of Major Anna Louden, and forty from Brooklyn and Queens under command of Capt. Christina Lewis.

Candy Distributed.
Candy and fruit were distributed by the women police reserves among the immigrants. This pleased the children particularly. The candy was of various kinds, but all of them seemed to prefer the hard candy. Many of the little newcomers appeared never to have seen this particular kind of candy and had to be shown how to get the most delight out of them.

Commissioner Wallis spoke of Ellis Island as the gateway of America. "But," he continued, "the gate swings only outwardly for any man or woman who by word or deed would threaten our constitution or our free institutions. Commissioner Wallis said that none of the Reds or Soviet group were in attendance at the concert. They were invited but declined to come, evidently preferring to remain under guard.

"The people who have come here from other lands have made the nation what it is today, a great land of opportunity. Not of those who have come here have been those who have been here for the rights of others. Some, however, in these latter days, perhaps because of the fact that they have been oppressed abroad and believed that all government was instituted for their oppression, have sought to overthrow the government of this country. And it is the duty of every citizen to recognize their obligation to the country and to the people who have come here from other lands."

"The Minister of Denmark, Mr. Constantin Bruun, has returned to the legation here from his trip to New York, where he spent the summer."

The Minister of Poland, Prince Czarninski, who has been in New York on a brief visit, Princess Lubomirski, who spent the summer at Newport, is expected in Washington about October 1.

Immense Throng Greets Babe Ruth in 'Movie' Debut

Baseball Fans Crowd Garden to See Home Run Champion as Actor.

An immense throng of baseball and "movie" fans attended the first presentation in Madison Square Garden last night by Tex Rickard of Babe Ruth on the screen. The home run king appeared in "Headin' Home," the B. B. S. Films, Inc., filmed the picture.

Babe's debut as a film star also marked the opening of the Garden under the direction of Rickard. "Headin' Home" is a rural comedy drama in which Babe is the latest effort of R. L. Walsh, who has surrounded the home run champion with a cast which includes Miss Ruth Taylor, William Sherry, William J. Gross and Walter Lawrence.

There was music by J. T. Bryan's orchestra, and Babe's first home run was shown in the performance.

Babe Ruth is first shown on the film in the woods cutting down a small tree from which he finally makes a baseball bat with which he makes his first home run of the Haystack League.

He knocked the ball five blocks, sending it with a crash through a memorial window that was just being placed in the village of Codd.

There is so much indignation in the village over Babe's breaking the window that he is forced to leave the place. He goes to where he gets a job as a farm hand, where he gets a girl named Mabel. He returns to the village a baseball hero. Of course there is a beautiful girl in the film who is Babe's sweetheart.

Frances Victoria, a child wonder, and a dog are other features of the production.

W. S. Hart Gives Lesson in Crime in 'Cradle of Courage'

It cannot justly be said that "The Cradle of Courage," in which W. S. Hart was seen yesterday at the Rivoli, is continuously entertaining or even interesting. Its quality as diversion varies, but this irregularity may be due to the educational features of the cinema.

Frederick Bradbury and Lambert Miller, authors of the work, have kept this phase of the picture almost constantly in mind. In the evolution of the returned A. E. F. man into a policeman after he has led a life of crime in San Francisco there are many episodes possibly instructive to any high school graduate, for instance, ambitious to develop into a first class second story man. Then there are suggestions as to his career that might serve for any other boy anxious to become a housebreaker.
